WELCOME TO THE
UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA, MORRIS

A Commentary

It is evident that American colleges and universities are undergoing yet another crisis in their struggle to provide the human and physical resources necessary to accomplish their objectives. Declines in enrollments with corresponding declines in revenues have become the rule, especially in Minnesota. Up to now, the University of Minnesota, Morris has not suffered an enrollment decline. Enrollment increases at UMM have been modest over the past two years, but the trend has continued upward. It is a matter of speculation whether this can be said again next June.

Unfortunately, there seems to be developing an attitude that in times of austerity, such as the present, the most vulnerable programs should be those which appear to be less practical in their application — that is, liberal arts programs. It is obvious to me that the liberal arts approach to education instills in its practitioners humane, rational and esthetic values. What then could be more practical than striving to reach one's complete potential through the liberal arts experience.

The 1973 UMM graduates carry with them this liberal arts heritage. I know they will build upon their experiences here at UMM and use them in ways that will be of benefit to themselves and to others.

John Q. Imholte, Provost

NATIONAL ANTHEM: The audience, directed by Ralph E. Williams, Associate Professor of Music, Division of Humanities:

Oh, say can you see, by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last-gleaming,
Whose broad stripes and bright stars thro' the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming?
And the rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof thro' the night that our flag was still there.
Oh, say does that star-spangled banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

A MOMENT OF SILENCE WILL BE OBSERVED.

SPEAKING FOR THE UNIVERSITY AND INTRODUCING GUESTS: John Q. Imholte, Provost.

Academic Regalia

The pageantry and dress of American colleges and universities has been inherited from the medieval universities of the eleventh and twelfth centuries. Academic life as we know it today began in the Middle Ages, first in the Church, then in the guilds. The teaching guild was the Guild of the Master of Arts, where the Bachelor was the apprentice of the Master and the dress was the outward sign of privilege and responsibility.

Principal features of academic dress are the gown, the cap and the hood. Early it became necessary for universities to set rules to preserve the dignity and meaning of the academic dress. Both Cambridge and Oxford since the fifteenth century have made academic dress a matter of university control even to its minor details, and have repeatedly published revised regulations. American universities agreed on a definite system in 1895. In 1932 the American Council of Education presented a revised code which for the most part governs the style of academic dress today.

THE GOWN: The flowing gown comes from the twelfth century. While it originally may have been worn as protection against the cold of unheated buildings, today it has become symbolic of the democracy of scholarship, for it covers any dress of rank or social standing underneath. It is black for all degrees with pointed sleeves for the Bachelor degree; long closed sleeves with a slit at the arm or wrist for the Masters degree; and full bell double sleeves for the Doctors degree. Bachelors and Masters degree gowns have no trimming. For the Doctors degree the gown is faced down the front with velvet and has three bars of velvet across the sleeves, in the color distinctive of the faculty or discipline to which the degree pertains.

THE CAP: When Roman law freed the slave he won the privilege of wearing a cap. The academic cap is a sign of freedom of scholarship and the responsibility and dignity with which scholarship endows the wearer. Old poetry records the cap of scholarship as square to symbolize the book. The color of the tassel denotes the discipline.

THE HOOD: The hood is trimmed with one or more chevrons of a secondary color on the ground of the primary color of the college. The color of the facing of the hood denotes the discipline represented by the degree, the color of the lining designates the university or college from which the degree was granted.

SHOULDER CORDS on the gowns of candidates for degrees indicate that the candidates are honor students.
